Advance Report on

FOODS TO FEATURE *

The foods listed below are expected to be in plentiful supply in September and December. This is not an official forecast of supply conditions, but is based on intentions to plant, production estimates, production in previous years, and other factors.

These same foods will probably appear on the Monthly List of Plentiful Foods issued by the Production and Marketing Administration during the indicated months. Plentiful Foods are given nation-wide emphasis by food trade organizations, and by press and radio.

You may want to consider these foods as features for food columns, food advertisements, and food merchandising in the months designated.

Foods for September 1952

Pears	Cabbage
Grapes	Onions
Canned and frozen citrus products	Stewing hens
	Small & medium eggs

Foods for December 1952

Oranges
Grapefruit
Dried prunes
Raisins
Tree nuts
Turkeys

H O N E Y

"Foods to Feature", issued early in April, listed honey for October. At the request of honey producers, the Department is seeking your cooperation in calling attention to honey during the month. The leaflet, Honey and Some of Its Uses (Leaflet No. 113), is enclosed for your use in preparation of material on this sweetening.

(*) Note: In connection with the Plentiful Foods Program to increase the consumption of abundant foods through normal channels of trade.
